

“The trumpet is a powerful tool for creativity, resilience and personal development that can help young people discover their full potential.”

SCHELVIN ROBINSON TRUMPET MASTER CLASS

Schelvin Robinson is committed to empowering young minds through the art of music, using the trumpet as a vehicle for growth and self-expression.

The trumpet master class can be a full-day class or broken into modules. It is available to middle and high school band students. Through fun and supportive interaction, students will improve: breathing, posture, tone, embouchure, articulation and the ability to play with confidence in a band. They receive exercises and practice strategies to use in rehearsals and at home.

Robinson is a Graduate Teaching Assistant at Florida State University, where he is pursuing a Doctor of Music in Trumpet Performance with a certificate in Arts Administration and College Teaching. He received the McKnight Doctoral and Dissertation Fellowship (2025–26). He holds a Master of Music in Trumpet Performance from the University of Florida and a BS in Music Education from Florida A&M University. He is the founder of Trumpet Outreach for Youth Education (T.O.Y.E.), a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting the next generation of trumpet players through workshops, mentorship and educational resources.

HAPCO Music Foundation helps young people use their musical, culinary and artistic talents to build their better futures. Students improve their talents to obtain college scholarships or to pursue professional careers.

Free programs in Florida, Texas and Georgia include clinics, master classes, live performances, instrument donation, private lessons and scholarships.
